

Leading TARA Akshar+ Literates towards Livelihoods

A 10-day Dairy Farming Training was conducted by RSETI (Rural Self Employment Training Institute) – Union Bank of India, on 7th May 2018, at Achwar village of Aurai Block, Bihar. RSETIs are promoted and managed by banks with active cooperation from the Government of India and State Governments. These are dedicated institutions designed to ensure necessary skill training and skill upgradation of rural below poverty line (BPL) youth to mitigate the unemployment problem. Development Alternatives (DA) has tied up with RSETI - Union Bank of India (Gyanpur, Uttar Pradesh), wherein TARA Akshar+ neoliterates are given opportunities to take up trainings on vocational courses such as Dairy Farming, Beautician Course, Tailoring & Stitching Course and Enterprise Development. All 35 trainees have cleared the Dairy Farming examination, and are now eligible to take loans from the Union Bank of India, Gyanpur, for enhancement of their livelihood.
